7 Days Portarlington Victoria Beach Break

About the holiday

Portarlington is a charming seaside town on the north-eastern corner of Victoria's Bellarine Peninsula. It's an ideal beach break location, with sheltered swimming beaches and lovely foreshore recreation area – the perfect place to enjoy a BBQ, tuck into the obligatory fish and chips or sit back and enjoy being away from the bustle of the city.

There's plenty more to explore around the historic town. The town's landmark is the Grand Hotel, built in 1886, and the impressive old steam-powered Portarlington Mill was built out of sandstone in 1857. A top recommendation for exploring the area is taking the scenic coastal drive. It's about 10 kilometres and follows the foreshore from Portarlington to the beach towns of Indented Head and St Leonards.

To get you into holiday mode early, we've included ferry transfers from Melbourne to Portarlington for a fun way to arrive!

Why you'll love this trip...

Stay in a fully-equipped apartment that's only a 5 minute walk to the beach!

About the Bellarine Peninsula

The Bellarine Peninsula is located south-west of Melbourne in Victoria, Australia, surrounded by Port Phillip, Corio Bay and Bass Strait. The peninsula, together with the Mornington Peninsula, separates Port Phillip from Bass Strait. The peninsula itself was originally occupied by Indigenous Australian clans of the Wathaurong nation, prior to European settlement in the early 19th century. Early European settlements were initially centred on wheat and grain agriculture, before the area became a popular tourist destination with most visitors arriving by paddle steamer on Port Phillip in the late 19th century.

Today, approximately 55,000 people live on the peninsula and unlike its cousin, the Mornington Peninsula, this number increases only slightly during peak tourist months. However, the peninsula is a growing tourist region with a variety of beaches and seaside resorts and wineries; most of the peninsula is a part of the City of Greater Geelong.
