8 Days Lord Howe Island Fly-Stay Getaway

About the holiday

This tiny Australian island off the coast of New South Wales might be a speck in the Tasman Sea, but on its land lies an enormous wealth of flora and fauna!

Famous for its sandy beaches, subtropical forests and clear waters, Lord Howe Island is a very special Aussie island escape. In the south, a rugged trail winds up soaring Mount Gower for sweeping views of the length of the island. Ned's Beach in the north has sea life and coral-rich waters – you can even hand-feed the friendly fish from the shallows.

The island is home to seabird colonies, including masked boobies, as well as the flightless and endangered Lord Howe woodhen. Renowned for incredible snorkelling and scuba diving, many great dive sites surround the nearby Admiralty Islands.

On an island that has very few cars and allows no more visitors than residents, this magical getaway attracts nature lovers who want to switch off, slow down, relax and re-connect!
